JACQUELINE GREEN

COMMERCIAL INTERIOR DESIGNER,
EDUCATOR, ENTREPRENEUR.

Jacqueline Green is an experienced commercial interior designer and adjunct college instructor, who saw a need in the design community. After working for several architectural firms, Jacqueline found amazing designers and architects struggling with different aspects of their business. Whether it was software expertise, marketing the business, or developing staff, each organization had that one pain point.

See, before going back to school, graduating at the top of her class, and becoming an interior designer, Jacqueline had spent over 20 years working in both large corporations and small businesses, leading and training teams. With an extensive background in business and marketing, she realized she had a skill set that not only enabled her to help design firms overcome that one pain point, but also fulfill a greater innate need to make a difference and help others. GA Interior Solutions was born.

MISSION

GA Interior Solutions, LLC is helping build a stronger design community by reimagining how we train, educate, and support interior designers.

Through our blog and soon Podcasts, we develop content to help interior designers grow their design business, expand their professional careers, and create and implement successful marketing strategies. In addition, GAI is helping you build loyal teams with well-trained and happy employees. We want to help you be successful by assisting you in the areas where you need it.

Our training programs are specifically created for interior designers by interior designers. Who better to know how you will use the software than another interior designer? Whether you need to sharpen your skills in SketchUp, need a refresher in Revit, or are a beginner in either, we can help you.

GAI is an organically grown business focusing on partnering with like-minded companies and experts in the community. We take every opportunity to create an experience that will mean something to your business and team. By focusing on others' needs, GAI is providing dependable services that make others more successful.

We are dedicated to helping interior designers by delivering professional development courses, educational content, and business resources.
